

Measuring the effectiveness of Information Literacy programs

Szarina Abdullah and Nor Rashimahwati Tarmachi

Faculty of Information Management, Universiti Teknologi MARA, Shah Alam, Selangor, MALAYSIA. drszarina@salam.uitm.edu.my

The study highlights differences obtained by two different instruments in data collection when researchers want to obtain users feedback on their information literacy programs conducted by most academic libraries. Findings indicate that data obtained from users' perception do not always indicate factual performance and students' ability in Information Literacy.