

Databases - instruments of documentation and information in scientific research

Corina Pop, Mailat Gabriela
Transilvania University of Brasov, Brasov, Romania
popcorina@unitbv.ro

If we are to talk about of information source in XXI-th century, it definitely belongs to the virtual information environment either it is website, library, publication, study or article. Nowadays, the information is being created, developed and spread in real time, online. The documentation and information are greatest importance in order to acquire competencies in scientific research.

In this article we present the databases that are available at our university and also useful to researchers and to the members of the teaching staff.

Key Words: databases, documentation, information, digital library, doctoral school